A WOMAN'S QUESTION.

Do you recall the question that I asked you?
That day we took the cool, dim, woodland way—
Only we two, apart from gay companions,
Who on the greenward kept the holiday?

Do you recall the question that I asked you?
The breezes died around us as I spoke,
And in your eyes' swift, upward glance I seemed
To behold a startled dream my voice awoke.

Do you recall the question that I asked you—
Impulsive, brief, as one who might not wait
The measured march of Opportunity—
That old, old question, "Is my hat on straight?"
—The Clubwoman.

BOX OF LAW BOOKS

Found Yesterday By Policeman Senteney on River Bank

Yesterday afternoon while doing patrol duty in the West End Policeman Senteney discovered a large box underneath the bank below the Depot.

The name of K. C. Thompson, Columbus, O., was printed on the box, to whom it had evidently been consigned. Upon being opened it was found to contain law books.

There had been several hoboos in the vicinity acting suspiciously all morning and on the approach of the officer they separated and dispersed. One, however, was arrested later on. He gave his name as Edward Donley and on his person was found a razor.

How the box came there is yet to be found out.

CLEAN THE SEWERS

An Action That Should Be Attended to at Once

A valued privilege that belongs to the city is the use of the fire plugs for the purpose of slushing the gutters and sewers; yet it is seldom taken advantage of.

During a long dry spell such as has been experienced in the past four weeks filth and decayed matter accumulate enormously in sewers, and the foul vapor arising therefrom carries disease and ultimately death to many homes.

These cesspools should be carefully looked after and slushed and cleaned at least once a week during the exceedingly hot and dry weather.

Barrels of lime should be used for disinfecting purposes.

By placing plenty of lime at the opening and letting it seep through it would no doubt help to a great extent in purifying the otherwise putrid condition of the sewer.

To do this entails time and trouble, but the good results therefrom would more than balance the account.

Since THE LEDGER called attention to the unhealthy condition of the alley near the First Ward Schoolhouse the Health Board has made an inspection of the premises and at the next meeting of the City Council will recommend that arrangements of some kind be made for the carrying off of the kitchen slop that now finds its way to this alley.

The health of the community demands that all proper precautions against epidemics should be put in force, and certainly there is need that something be done at the present time.

HOME FROM THE FAIR

Judge G. S. Wall Has a Busy Time as Kentucky Host

When one considers the number of entertainments—exclusive of the Fair—that our Commissioners have to attend, it is a wonder that Judge Wall returned alive from his two weeks charge of Kentucky's Building at St. Louis; but he did, and in good condition. Tuesday, and is enthusiastic about the great show. He says it is not a question of can you afford to go, "but can you afford to stay away."

The weather has been ideal, and the arrival of Kentuckians has ranged from 650 to 1,170 per day.

Numerous receptions were held at the Kentucky Building, the most National being the D. A. R. Mesdames Manning, Fairbanks, Stephenson and Lindsay were the most notable ladies present.

The Judge says if Senator Fairbanks is as popular as his wife that he will be the next Vice-President.

Many of the Bishops and Archbishops of the Catholic Church attended the meeting of the Sisters of the Loretto. Thirty-five states were represented.

The Daughters of the Confederacy held a reception also—some thirty states being represented. Senator Lindsay and wife, Mrs. Basil Duke and Mrs. Cantrill were the most prominent persons from Kentucky.

Many state receptions occurred in the last two weeks, and our Commissioner was kept busy.

THE LIBERTY BELLES.

The story of "The Liberty Belles," which comes to the Washington Friday, is almost entirely humorous, and is a comic play which has its foundation in a sentimental escapade on the part of Margery Lee, a stage struck girl engaged to Jack Everleigh, an Annapolis cadet, and Dorothy Grey, a fellow-student, engaged to Phil Fullerton, a Yale junior. These parts are played by Lottie Staveley, the widely known comedienne and mimic, and the strikingly beautiful young actress and vocalist, Anne Stuart. The comedy element is largely in the hands of Percy Leach and William H. Conley, two of the best comedians in this line on the American stage today. Each of these gentlemen enjoys a wide reputation for artistic work in their own line. The organization is also a notable one for its exceptionally attractive and clever young women, there being some twenty-five of them, each one playing a distinct character. The sale of seats is now open at Ray's.

In the tobacco awards at the St. Louis Exposition Mr. Dan W. Peed of Paris got a grand prize on Burley Leaf tobacco. It will be remembered that at the Maysville Tobacco Fair a year or so ago Mr. Peed bought a quantity of the weed to place on exhibition. Other awards were a gold medal to the Ohio Valley Pulley Works of this city for split wood pulleys, and a silver medal for an exhibit of Bluebird water from the Springs in Nicholas county.

"A Royal Slave" will be seen at The Washington Opera-house next Tuesday, October 25th, with the same great cast and beautiful scenic effects that has made it so conspicuous and will be one of the notable events of the theatrical season in this city. It is seldom that local play-goers of this country have such an opportunity of seeing one of the best things in the amusement world and it is to be hoped that the Management's efforts in securing this excellent attraction will be appreciated.

Kentucky stands far up in the lead in the list of awards made to the exhibitors of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, having a total of 186, divided as follows: Six grand prizes, thirty-five gold medals, fifty-three silver medals, seventy-two bronze medals. This record, too, is made in the face of the fact that there were only three Kentuckians on the juries of awards.

CLOTHES-LOGY!

Is the science of Clothes, including knowledge of cloth, handicraft in making, economy of production and artistic originality of design. A technical knowledge of the first three is important, but it is the last that reveals the creative master mind. Hence, gentlemen, our Mackinette and Cravenette Overcoats bearing the mark "R. & W." are so popular with our good dressers they are made under above-named conditions. Young gentlemen, you who have never worn one of our Rochester-made Suits, just slip into one; "she'll" see the difference. There is an individuality to them that at a glance distinguishes them from all other makes. Our Shoe business is growing to such proportions that we added the celebrated "Walk-Over" Shoe to our line. Hanan, Douglas and Walk-Over, the three best lines in the country, are now found in our house. Corduroy Suits and Pants are now in order. We have an immense stock of them. Special inducements in Corduroy Pants to merchants. Price ours before you buy them in Cincinnati; we'll save you money. When hunting season begins be sure and get one of our Sweaters.

JUDGE BENNETT'S RECORD.

Grayson Tribune.

Judge Bennett has worked up to the present honorable position from a farm boy by hard knocks. The first time we ever saw him was thirty years ago. He was but a chunk of a boy himself and his occupation was that of general ginhand about a sorghum molasses factory that his uncle was operating on the shares near Bennett's Mill on Tygart's creek in Greenup county.

We next saw him in the schoolroom, a student, then in the country store; always with a good book nearby and his idle moments were spent in digging the rich jewels of thought from its pages.

Moving to Greenup his ability and attractive personality won for him the nomination for County Judge, and he is now serving his third term, and during his administration $75,000 of old indebtedness of the county has been discharged, showing him to be a financier of ability.

All of these nominations came to him unsought, as did the Congressional nomination. He has accepted them and gone in to win. He will leave nothing undone to win this race, and the Republicans and those who indorse those principles that have made our country great should rally to his support.

He is a friend of the farmer, because he has spent most of his life on a farm; he is a friend of the toiler, because he is a toiler himself, and what he is is the reward of his own energy and self-sacrifice. He is a man of and from the masses, whom all may trust without fear of being deceived, because he has been tried and not found wanting.

UPRIGHT JUDGE PARKER

Peculiar Circumstances In Which He Began His Political Career. Early Election Questioned.

His First Election as Surrogate the Beginning of Influence as a Boss.

[Charles Marshall, formerly editor of the Kingston Freeman, tells the story.]

When I went to Kingston he (Parker) was in his first year as surrogate. The Republican leaders accused him of being out of his place, for Peter Cantine, one of the ablest lawyers and most esteemed and honored citizens of the state, had preceded him in office and had been his opponent at a recent election. But the Democratic party, having met with a number of successes, had obtained the mastery of the county at last and devised and worked with success a system that had filled them with confidence of their invincibility. They no longer had any respect for the rights of their opponents, or even for majorities on the other side. The town of Kingston, surrounding the city of the same name, covering a large extent of wealthy farming territory and including also a portion of the Catskills in which were valuable limestone quarries worked by foreigners, all of whom voted the Democratic ticket and profited enormously in consequence, gave Parker his first majority in political life. This majority was drawn from two stone quarry precincts which contained not more than 150 voters, but gave Parker 600 votes. This was done by simply holding back the votes till the rest of the county was heard from and then returning a sufficient number to elect him. Whether Parker connived at this fraud is not publicly known. It is known, however, that he accepted and held the office for six years. This was the beginning of a political career more successful than that of any other Democrat in Ulster county. He quickly developed into a powerful political boss, dictating nominations and appointments, and kept busy with declining honors for himself, if we are to believe all the reports of his friends.

But the "plan of campaign" devised by the Ulster county leaders, so fortunate for Parker, brought very little benefit to other leaders of that party. The result in dollars and cents was more costly than the taxpayers could bear. The same 150 "voters" who cast 600 ballots for Parker levied $10,000 taxes upon the town for outdoor relief, but, though the men of property protested and went to law, a Democratic court decided that they must pay, and they did. But the papers—the Kingston Daily Freeman and the Kingston Journal—which I owned and edited took up the subject and spent the entire winter publishing these expenditures item by item. The same forces that gave Parker his dishonest majority had absorbed all the offices of the town and seemed equipped for a long and luscious lease of power. But the people read the papers which exposed the rascalties perpetrated by the quarry statesmen, backed by a Democratic board of supervisors with more than a two-thirds majority. There was a new board to be elected in the spring, and not a day passed without the printing of from one to three columns of Democratic doling. The result was a sweeping revolution, the Republicans electing seventeen and the Democrats nine members. When the new board met almost the first act was to divide the town, setting off the little stone quarry section by itself and creating the large town of Ulster, inhabited by prosperous farmers and manufacturers. The effect was to make the county permanently Republican and to suppress repeating and ballot box stuffing in the little remnant of the old town. The new town of Ulster, which had paid $10,000 for feeding the paupers of the stone quarries the previous year, appropriated $800 for outdoor relief, and it sufficed for the purpose for three years. Other reforms of a more general nature were instituted and the taxes for county purposes fell from $331,320.48 in 1877 to $198,338.09 in 1879. The decline continued, and in 1882, the last year of my stay in Kingston, they fell to $156,907.07.

The effect upon the Democratic party was terrible. More than half of the leaders were driven out of office. Almost alone Parker remained undisturbed. He had been elected for six years, and before his term expired the county had passed into Republican control, the strictest economy was insisted upon, and when the Democrats had the good fortune to elect one of their number he was a man of integrity, and one by one the members of the old ring were dropped.

Like Many Others.

An old time Democrat in a Michigan town was discussing politics with a rural Democrat, at the same time dividing a sack of peanuts between them and spreading the shucks over the courthouse steps. "How did you like Judge Parker's speech of acceptance?" asked the town Democrat. "Well," said the rural delegate, as he took another handful of peanuts, "I like peanuts a whole lot better."

Roosevelt and the Farmer.

[From the Orange Judd Farmer.] Especially do the farmers of America pin their faith to Theodore Roosevelt. He knows them and their wants.

He was the first president to comprehensively grasp the problems of forestry, irrigation, good roads, rural free delivery, etc. He was instrumental in putting into force laws and policies for aiding agriculture in these and many other respects.

He appointed a commission of experts to review the land laws and to outline such reforms as would best promote the public interest in general and also the welfare of the bona fide settler, stockman, rancher and lumberman, while putting a stop to the plundering of the public domain. Roosevelt means that the public lands, waters and forests shall be the heritage of the people.

The federal irrigation policy has been wisely championed and fathered by Theodore Roosevelt. Without subjecting east or south to further agricultural competition, this irrigation policy is creating thousands of happy and self-sustaining homes in the previously arid west, thereby developing a large addition to that best of all markets for our labor, capital and manufacturers—the home market.

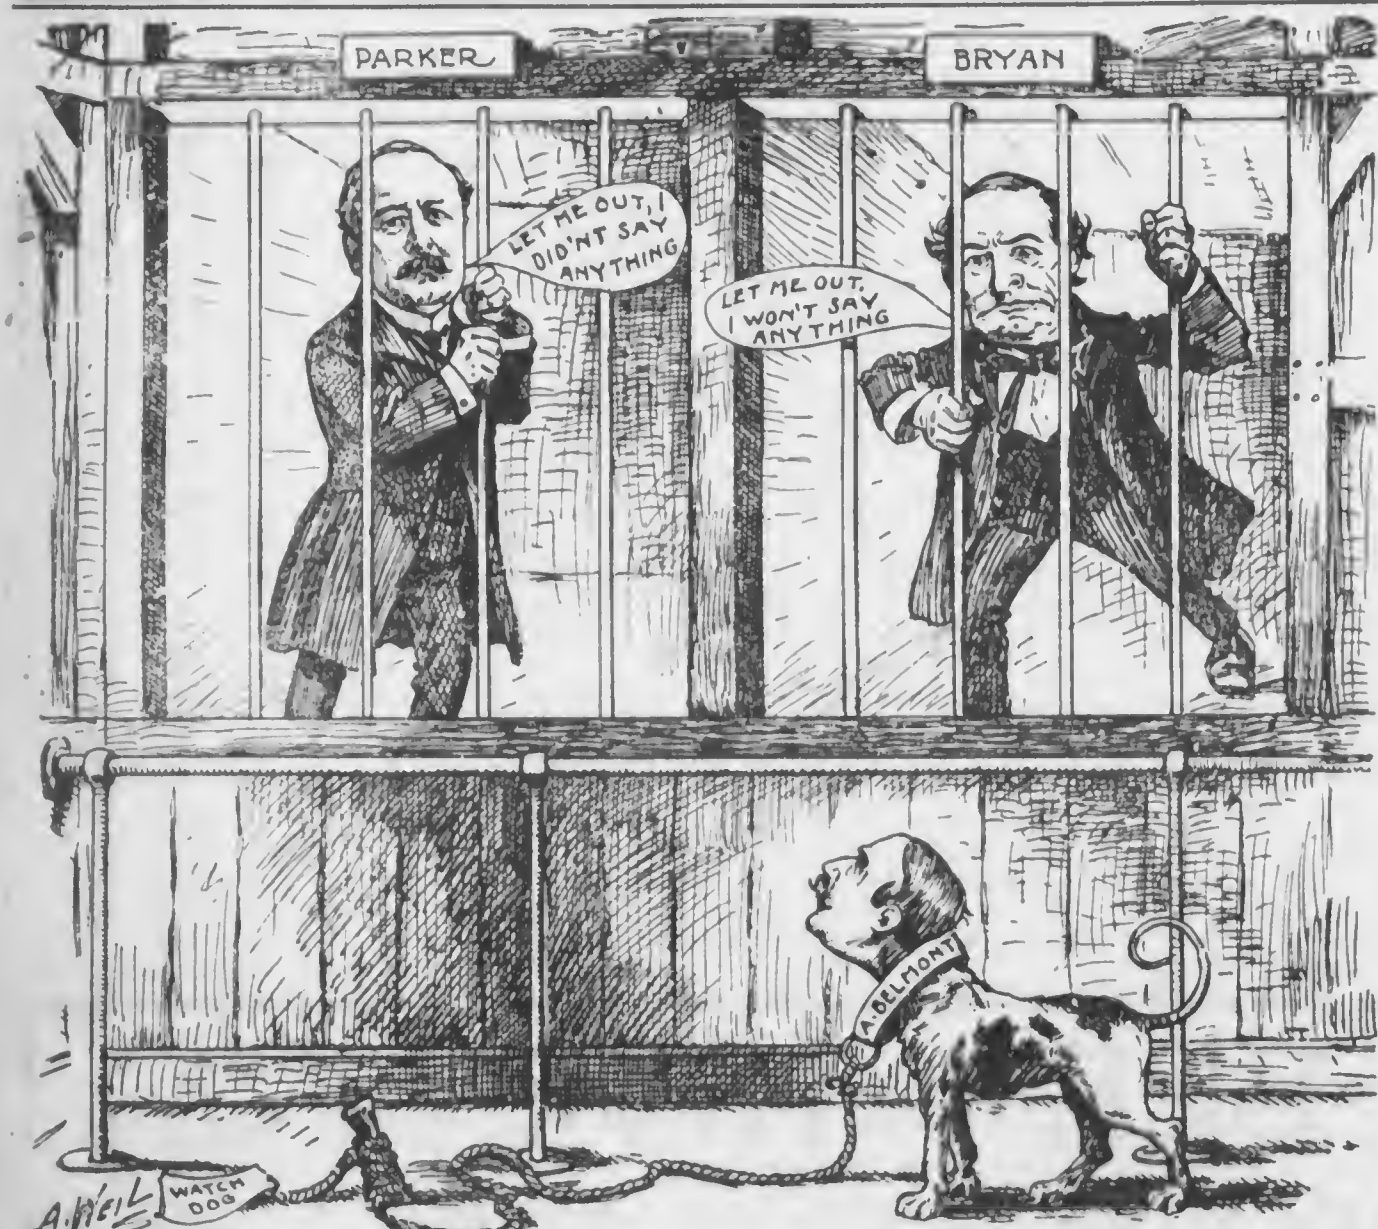

Still more wonderful, this national irrigation policy is being carried out without expense to taxpayers. The money for it comes from the sale of public lands—$27,000,000 now available—and is paid back by the settlers upon the land irrigated.

Anti-Imperialist Fashions.

[From the New York Tribune.] Mr. Dooley, remarked a few days ago, "The attic of Ivy Dimmycrat's house is filled with old policies that he wants used—policies that have faded or punctured a tire or broke a main-spring or been run over by a hand wagon." Anybody who goes into the Democratic garret and seeks the corner where the castoff garments of anti-imperialism have been thrown with the successive changes of fashion will certainly confess that Mr. Dooley in this respect understands the Democracy. For five years now the Democracy has been denouncing "imperialism," and this year it again appears in that role, with the so called anti-imperialists proclaiming it the only hope of human liberty. Yet the fashion of its anti-imperialism has changed so often and so completely that it would hardly know itself if it rigged up in its former costumes for the part.

The Friend of Labor.

[From the Post-Express.] Will organized labor be wise enough and bold enough in its own cause to cast its influence for a president who has proved beyond peradventure that he is not the creature of organized capital and who in taking that course has put his political fortunes in jeopardy?

Shortly after the close of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, twenty-eight war vessels, modeled after their greater sisters of the American Navy, will sail from St. Louis for a trip down the Mississippi to New Orleans, with New York as the ultimate destination. The little vessels measure from 18 feet to 23 feet in length and are exact models of the big ships of the Navy. At New Orleans the fleet will act as an escort to the monarch of the Mardi Gras, and he will make his grand entree into the Carnival City amid the salutes of the little ships and while their pennants are dipping in salute to his regal highness.

Some Reasonable Advice.
It may be a piece of superfluous advice to urge people at this season of the year to buy a supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is almost sure to be needed before winter is over, and much more prompt and satisfactory results are obtained when taken as soon as a cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system, which can only be done by keeping the remedy on hand. This remedy is so widely known and so altogether good that no one should hesitate about buying it in preference to any other. It is for sale by all Druggists.

HAVE YOU SEEN THE LOVELY ANTIQUE?

If not, please call at John L. Winter's Store promptly, as we will soon ship it to the larger cities for exhibition.

REPRODUCTIONS.

Many well factories are attempting reproductions of ancient furniture, and with experienced cabinet makers are fairly successful, but the arts and crafts of today are unable to reproduce this lovely specimen. Critics all pronounce it the loveliest specimen that has ever been unearthed.

GARBLED QUOTATIONS.

How Parker Misused McKinley's Last Speech.

From Parker's letter of acceptance: "He pointed out in his last address to the people that we must make sensible trade arrangements if we shall extend the outlets for our increasing surplus."

What McKinley said: "By sensible trade arrangements which shall not interrupt our home production we shall extend the outlets for our increasing surplus."

Judge Parker quotes McKinley further as follows: "A system which provides a mutual exchange of commodities is manifestly essential to the continued healthful growth of our export trade." But he stops there without including the following last sentence of the paragraph: "We should take from our customers such of their products as we can use without harm to our industries and labor."

Who says the "most noble Judge" could purposely misrepresent?

"POLITICAL OLIGARCHY."

Some Facts About Voters' Rights in Virginia.

Something like a hundred years ago Thomas Jefferson protested against the new constitution of Virginia because it gave more power to 19,000 voters in the plantation region of the east than to 30,000 in the non-slaveholding western part of the state. Hence, he claimed, the state would be really ruled by an oligarchy. Let us see whether this is true now. In the Third district, one of the old slave-holding districts, are included the cities of Richmond and Manchester, and one in twenty-eight of the population votes. In the Fourth district, another of those with a large ex-slave population, a total vote of 6,341 was cast in a population of 100,321—one in twenty-six—the winning candidate receiving 5,717 votes, or about five-sixths of the whole. In the Ninth district, including some of the western counties, about whose rights Jefferson was solicitous, a total vote of 27,170 was cast in a population of 227,381—about one vote in seven. The Republican candidate received 13,694 votes, and his opponent 13,476, more than twice as many votes as were required to elect a Democrat in the Fourth district, while the total vote is four times as great as that in the Fourth district and the population only about 60,000 greater. Sixty thousand more people and four times as many votes required to elect a representative! And Jefferson called it political oligarchy when 19,000 voters had more power than 30,000. And Judge Parker does not desire that justice shall "wait on political oligarchy?"
